Links: present invention relates to a semiconductor device and a method of manufacturing the same, and more particularly to a technology that is applicable to a semiconductor device and a method of manufacturing the same which have a nitride semiconductor film as an active layer of a field-effect transistor such as a hetero junction field-effect transistor. A semiconductor device having an active layer of a nitride semiconductor has been attracting attention. The semiconductor device has advantages such as a high breakdown voltage, a high-speed switching operation, and high-output operation. In a semiconductor device having a field-effect transistor (FET) as an active device, it is important to improve the properties of an interface between a semiconductor film constituting a substrate and an active layer and to reduce interface state density. For example, Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 2002-222947 describes a manufacturing method of a nitride semiconductor device including the steps of epitaxially growing a substrate layer on a sapphire substrate, growing nitride semiconductor crystal layers on the substrate layer, and forming a trench in the nitride semiconductor crystal layer grown on the sapphire substrate and in the nitride semiconductor crystal layer grown on the substrate layer. This nitride semiconductor device is used as a high-power semiconductor device because a cavity is formed on the substrate side and the nitride semiconductor is free from stress. An inflatable vehicle occupant protection device, such as an air bag, is inflated and deployed by means of an actuator. The actuator includes a housing and an inflatable device contained within the housing. Within the housing are at least one gas generator and a propellant which, when ignited, results in generation of an expanding gas to inflate and deploy the inflatable device. Gas generators use the pyrotechnic principle to generate a large quantity of gas. In this respect, the gas is generated and used to rapidly inflate and deploy the inflatable device. The produced gas is mixed with a gas, such as ambient air, so that the gas is directed toward the occupant of the vehicle. The gas infuses the inflatable device,

The abscess material can lead to damaging depression of the joint space with or without erosions and can contribute to further destabilization of the joint. Isolated abscesses are generally treated with open drainage with only a few weeks follow up. The joint is destabilized. The abscess can lead to weakening of the attachment of the joint capsule to bone and can contribute to postoperative residual instability of the joint. This becomes a point of debate among various published studies.[@ref10] Postoperative treatments include non-weight bearing for 6 months or more, as well as antibiotics, and physiotherapy as per the standard protocol. The preoperative joint assessment is of utmost importance. The patient should be educated regarding the possible repercussions
